DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-11 in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged. Therefore, claims 1-9 are prosecuted whereas claims 12-18 are withdrawn from consideration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-5 and 7 recite the limitation "the connector terminals". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim since this term "connector terminals" was not previously referred to in the dependent claim 1.

Claim 8 recites the limitation "the fundamental cells". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim since this term "the fundamental cells" were not previously referred to in claim 8.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over figures 13 of acknowledged prior art (APA) in view of Fudanuki et al.

Regarding claim 1, (APA) discloses a fundamental cell used as a basic unit in the layout of a semiconductor integrated circuit device comprising connection terminals 101 to be connected to upper wiring layers M2. (APA) does not disclose no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. However, Fudanuki et al discloses on figure 10A no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. In view of such teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify (APA) by having no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other for the purpose of improving the density integration of the semiconductor device as taught by Fudanuki et al (col. 12, lines 30-40).

Regarding claims 2-7, (APA) and Fudanuki et al together disclose the structure set forth in claims 2-7.

Regarding claim 8, (APA) discloses substantially all the structure set forth in the claimed invention except no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. However, Fudanuki et al discloses on figure 10A no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. In view of such teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify (APA) by having no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other for the purpose of improving the density integration of the semiconductor device as taught by Fudanuki et al (col. 12, lines 30-40).

Regarding claims 9-11, (APA) and Fudanuki et al together disclose the structure set forth in claims 9-11.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yuyama et al in view of Fudanuki et al.

Regarding claim 1, Yuyama et al discloses on figure 2 a fundamental cell used as a basic unit in the layout of a semiconductor integrated circuit device comprising connection terminals 2 to be connected to upper wiring layers. Yuyama et al does not disclose no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. However, Fudanuki et al discloses on figure 10A no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. In view of such teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Yuyama et al by having no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other for the purpose of improving the density integration of the semiconductor device as taught by Fudanuki et al (col. 12, lines 30-40).

Regarding claims 2-7, Yuyama et al and Fudanuki et al together disclose the structure set forth in claims 2-7.

Regarding claim 8, Yuyama et al discloses on figure 2 substantially all the structure set forth in the claimed invention except no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. However, Fudanuki et al discloses on figure 10A no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other. In view of such teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Yuyama et al by having no fixed wiring for commonly wiring between fundamental cells each other for the purpose of improving the density integration of the semiconductor device as taught by Fudanuki et al (col. 12, lines 30-40).

Regarding claims 9-11, Yuyama et al and Fudanuki et al together disclose the structure set forth in claims 9-11.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US Patent 4947229 to Tanaka et al discloses a semiconductor integrated circuit

US Patent 6057225 to Yokota discloses a semiconductor integrated circuit.

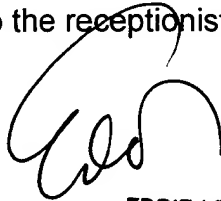

JP Patent 6-112447 to Masao et al discloses the integration of fundamental cells.
